

Assignment: Configure & Grade Group Assignments

In AsULearn, faculty can create assignments where students work in groups and each group makes an assignment submission. For example, students in a group can submit one file that represents their joint work. Any group member can download, modify, and re-upload a file, or edit a text entry. For faculty, grading one (any) student's group submission will automatically replicate that grade and feedback to all that group's members. This video walk through the creation of a group assignment:

Group Submission Setup Process

1. Make sure that students are placed into groups within AsULearn. If you have a particular set of groups you want to use for this activity, and exclude other groups, than you should also create a grouping. See the Groups: Create user groups and groupings support page.
2. In the assignment settings, enable Students submit in groups
3. Configure other Group submission settings options
4. Grade Student submissions

Step-by-step guide for Group Assignment Setup

1. Make sure that students are placed into groups within AsULearn. If you have a particular set of groups you want to use for this activity, and exclude other groups, than you should also create a grouping. See Groups support page.
2. On your course page, enable Edit mode at the top right of the browser window.
3. Add a new Assignment activity, or select Settings for an existing assignment. The New/Update Assignment page will open.
4. Configure the General, Availability, Assignment type, etc., for the assignment.
5. Click Group submission settings to view all the Group submission options, and from the Students submit in groups drop-down menu, select Yes.
6. From the Grouping for student groups drop-down menu, select the Grouping you created for your student groups. This will be necessary if your students are members of multiple groups, so confusion does not ensure. Pointing the assignment at a grouping (of groups) forces the correct set of groups when students have multiple group memberships.

7. Under Common module settings, from the Group mode drop-down menu, select Separate groups or Visible groups, and from the Grouping drop-down menu, select the Grouping used in the previous step.

Note: This step is especially important if you are assigning different Assignment activities to different groups in your course. This Group mode setting is for the Teacher, so that submissions can be easily sorted by groups when grading (see Grade Student Submissions, below).
