

Meshlab

Website

meshlab.net

Summary

MeshLab is an open-source, cross-platform software tool used for processing and editing 3D mesh models. It is primarily used in the field of computer graphics and computer-aided design (CAD) for tasks such as cleaning up and repairing mesh models, simplifying complex meshes, performing mesh analysis, and applying various mesh filters and transformations.

Who can use this service?

Dept of Geological and Environmental Sciences

How do I request this service?

None

Internal Data (Requires Login)

Status: Active

07/11/2023 09:54:35